Data Archiving Information

All JCR authors whose manuscripts are accepted on or after June 1, 2019 are required to archive their research data in sufficient detail to enable appropriate responses to questions about their data or results.

Review the detailed Data Archiving Policy at <http://www.ejcr.org/accepted.htm#DataArchiving> prior to submitting this form and address any questions to the editorial office at JCR@ejcr.org.

I hereby certify:

1. My agreement with JCR's data archiving policy;
2. That data have been archived on a password-protected, off-site repository (suggested repositories: <https://www.nature.com/sdata/policies/repositories#social>);
3. That each author has access to the stored data and permission to access it;
4. That archived data includes all original data and interim techniques (transformations, analysis procedures) or explanations that would allow the authors or independent researchers to replicate the analyses contained in the manuscript.
